"Tally" was formerly a route agent on the Mexican Central road, but having resigned he was soon head by some around the hospital as being queer and weak in mind. The young lad, nearly naked, took a long walk and it is supposed that while absent from the hospital he purchased the weapon with which, after returning to the hospital a few hours later, he took his own life. The body was found lying near the door to an old house, with the weapon tightly clenched in his right hand, and blood and brains oozing from a jagged hole in the right temple where a portion of the skull was blown out and fractured in places. He has formed a local committee on the subject of forming a branch of the American Legion here, and has called a meeting of the leading men of the community to form the legion soon as soon as I have had time to get up a chapter in the organization," said Col. McKibben. "I am told that the organization will be up and running in a few months." He is a very good-looking man, and is a disagreeable looking officer. Good bye.

The jury examined several persons at the hospital, and was satisfied that the deceased was suffering with insomnia and his mind clouded at times. They recognized him as a military man.

The verdict of the jury is as follows:

We the twelve named jurors in the matter of inquest on the body of James Morris, do find that the deceased came to his death by a pistol shot wound in the right temple inflicted by his own hand during a quarrel with his employer, O. W. Strong, between W. P. Lawyer, Billie Biggs, Chas. N. Anderson, Frank Gibbs and J. H. Tuttle, partners.

The deceased was about fifty years old, evidently quite intelligent, and wrote his letter of self destruction plain and good. Nothing is especially known of him here, but Dr. Kester, the surgeon, has sent a telegram to Peñner station to see if some one there can give any light as to where his relations are to be found.

The remains were removed to the undertakers rooms of O. W. Strong. The poso, stained with victim's life blood, is in the possession of Justice Debold.

The above election and some other routine business completed the program of the convention, and they adjourned to meet at Socorro next year. The majority of the ladies left on last night's trains, having expressed themselves much gratified with the reception accorded to them at Santa Fe.—New Mexican.

The Territorial Fair and Exposition.

Will be held at Albuquerque on Sept. 1st, and every county in New Mexico should be represented, there should be no petty jealousy in this matter. There can be but one Territorial fair and exposition and Albuquerque with her wide awake population is the place to hold it. We are informed that acting on the broad gauge, our county commissioners with the welfare of Socorro county at heart have asked Mr. J. J. Lessen to take his mineral exhibit of Socorro county to Albuquerque and represent the county of Socorro with a mineral display; this Mr. Lessen has agreed to do. He has some twenty tons of fine selected specimens, from over fifteen hundred mines, and from now until September next will be hard at work gathering specimens for the fair.

So far so good, but there are other things that can be exhibited. Our Ansonia goat interest should be there, and last of all but not least, our fruits should be there. Will not the people who have the interest of Socorro county at heart put their shoulder to the wheel and give a display from Socorro county that shall be second to none in the territory.—Cheifain.

Card of Thanks.

It will be remembered that a man named H. R. Baker fell from a passenger train, near Laguna recently, and was killed. His body was brought to this city, embalmed at Strong's, and his wife and daughter soon afterwards arrived from Los Angeles to take charge of it. The remains were shipped over the Atlantic & Pacific to Los Angeles, where they received burial. Here is a card of thanks from the bereaved wife and daughter:

Allow us through the columns of The Citizen to express our heartfelt thanks to our Albuquerque friends for their manifested kindness during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. BAKER AND DAUGHTER.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

This morning at 10:30 o'clock, James Morris, a patient at the Atlantic & Pacific hospital, located in the southern portion of the city, absconded unnoticed by sending a fast four-mile bullet from an English hunting pistol, crashing through his brain. The man was formerly a sheep herder on the road at Penitentiary, Co. of Colorado, and was brought to the hospital, suffering with the grippe, on the 18th of last May. He was gradually recovering from his illness, which, in no way, however, confined him to his bed; but still he was often led by some around the hospital as being queer and weak in mind. The morning, however, early, took a long walk and it is supposed that while absent from the hospital he purchased the weapon with which, after returning to the hospital a few hours later, he took his own life. The body was found lying near the door to an old house, with the weapon tightly clenched in his right hand, and blood and brains oozing from a jagged hole in the right temple where a portion of the skull was blown out and fractured in places. Two empty shells were found in the revolver, but only one shot was heard.

Juston Duran is a scoundrel and with Constable Lange reported to the hospital, and some corner's pitz was unpaned to investigate into the affair. They found on his person a memorandum book with the names and times of those who had worked under him at Fort Verde, Arizona, and long preparations to attend the fair and take part in the competitive drills.

W. W. McIntosh and wife, and A. W. Mitchell left last night for the east. The first named, with his wife, will stop over for a few weeks at Colorado Springs, Colo., A. W. McIntosh continuing on to home at Cadillac, Mich. They will return here in a few months.
